THE LATEST PIECE OF EQUIPMENT IN THE SHOP

Dave Wierenga, Ray Peterson, Ray Venier

The new Computer Numeric Control (CnC) machine is in place. This is a computerized router system with many uses including signs, names on gifts or pure decoration. As it is a sophisticated and expensive machine, members will be allowed to use it only after undergoing specific training, in small groups. First stage of instruction will consist of homework on using the machine's software to design a project. Second stage will take trainees into the shop to practice layout on the library computer. Finally wood will be put in place and the machine will use the selected design to make something exciting and beautiful. Classes will be announced soon so watch the information board for sign up.

THE WEBMASTER'S WARBLE #0003

Ernie Mills

OK, by now you should be getting more comfortable with browsing around your woodshop web site. So ... click on the Organization button and you'll get a page of who's who in the club. The top section shows you the current board and president, or List of Officers. You will find complete contact information including telephone number and email address. This is followed by the Committee and Key Personnel Assignments table. Most of these have their respective telephone contact information. The organization web page is maintained by the current President.

The Shop Procedures button takes you to what could be a very powerful web page with lots of Information. It was designed to hold all the duties of the various monitors and it also has the safety and usage information on many of the machines. Each has a .pdf file so you can easily print the information. Sadly this page is underused and without a manager. A lot of the information is now out-of-date; any volunteers to work on changing the status? Club Bylaws is just that and is kept current by the standing President and board. The Projects page. Ever wonder what you would like to make? Here you will find a list of projects. Click on a link to see a photograph of the project before you decide to make it, and then click the link that will download the plans for you and allow you to print them. This web page needs more of your projects. Please send me an image and the plans. I'll will then write them up and load them on to the web page for the members to peruse. We need many more so please dig deep and send me your stuff.

Before I finish this Warble click on Shop Photographs under the Miscellaneous menus. Any questions please email me at emills21@cox.net. Enjoy browsing your web site, Ernie

WORKBENCH USE

Workbenches aren't meant for storage, but for on-going projects. If you have an item on which you are actively working and you leave it overnight that's acceptable but if you aren't going to be in for a couple of days you must please move your work.

Check out the effect of the new clean your bench on Fridays rule on Fridays

The woodshop Board voted at the September meeting to eliminate storage on benches with immediate effect. This met with groans (from members using the shop daily) and cheers (members wanting bench space) and is particularly relevant during the busy winter period. The first week after the rule applied met with good results (see photo above), only a few members having to be reminded to move their work. Now bench review is happening on Fridays and all non-current work will have to be moved. Repeat miscreants will find their projects relocated to the "free" cart!

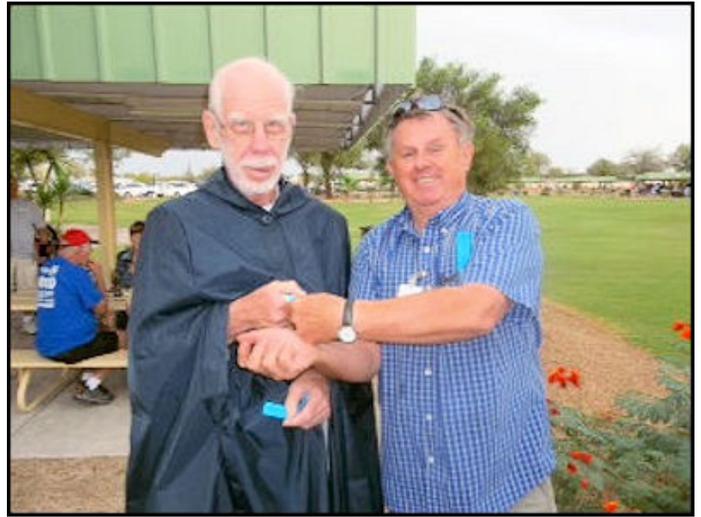

IT NEVER RAINS IN ARIZONA

except on the day of the Woodshop picnic!

Despite the clouds and intermittent rain, a good turnout of members, wives, significant others and friends was seen at the Beardsley ramadas for delicious burgers and hotdogs, salads, desserts and drinks, all guaranteed calorie-free, non-fat, low-carb, low sodium and non-fattening!
